

About Freeware

This Software title is licensed as FREEWARE. This means it is completely Free to use and can be copied and distributed freely as long as the following conditions are met:

- The source files on the original media cannot be changed in any way and must be distributed in full including any soft documentation.
- The software must not be packaged as an end user application. It must only be used as a configuration tool.
- There must be no charge for the software itself, although a charge may be made for duplication and/or media.
- Component software parts may not be used in third party applications without prior consent from the software author.

